

LATER DETAILS OF DISASTER

City Of Kingston Suffered From Fire Following The Quake Itself On Monday.

NO LIST OF DEAD AND INJURED YET

Total Of Known Dead Will Reach In Neighborhood Of Three Hundred, And Injured About A Thousand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—The United Fruit company received the following cablegram from Jamaica today: "The mercantile section of Kingston, including our office, was completely destroyed by an earthquake and fire. Several hundred are reported killed. The Myrtle bank and the Constantine Springs hotel are practically destroyed."

The following telegram was sent from Holland Bay dated Jan. 15: "The steamer Dewey will sail from Boston for Jamaica today with miscellaneous cargo of freight."

Few New Facts.
New York, Jan. 16.—Few additional details of the earthquake disaster at Kingston, Jamaica, reached the city during the night. Brief messages came from Holland Bay. The cable station on the island Jamaica forty miles from Kingston brought reports of the disaster, which is not so great as has been first feared.

Loss Smaller.
Only a part of the town is ruined by earthquake shocks and the loss of life is placed at thirty. 300 persons are reported as injured in the fire which started after the tremors. It is said the fire was brought under control late Monday night. The panic in Kingston apparently was short lived and it is stated the work of rescuing and caring for the injured is under way.

Flee From City.
Many persons, however, fled from the city and took refuge in the surrounding country, fearing a recurrence of the shocks.

Were Exaggerated.
London, Jan. 16.—Although the messages received by various steamship and cable companies, indicate the early reports, regarding the disaster at Kingston, with great loss of life, were exaggerated. The disaster is still of grave character.

Ruin and Desolation.
Ruin and desolation are said to stretch for miles away outside the city of Kingston. The shocks were felt from fifty to sixty miles away. One dispatch from a temporary cable station at Bull Bay says not a single house between there and Kingston is safe.

No estimate.
No estimate of the loss of life from official sources has yet come through, but the camp hospital appears to have been in the center of the visitation as no less than forty negro soldiers were killed there. There are isolated fatalities among the Europeans at Kingston but apparently the aggregate of the white victims is small.

A Direct Wire.
Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 16.—Kingston was overwhelmed by an earthquake at 3:30 Monday afternoon. All the houses within a radius of ten miles were injured and almost every house in the city was destroyed. Fire broke out after the earthquake and completed the destruction of the business section and Kingston is a heap of smoldering ashes. The killed number about 400, and a thousand were injured.

SO-CALLED LEATHER TRUST ORGANIZED

Deal by Which Big Companies Are Merged Effected After Two Years of Dickering.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Jan. 16.—The merger of the United States Leather company and the Central Leather company, to bring about which efforts have been making for more than two years past, was finally consummated today at a meeting of the stockholders of the two concerns held in Jersey City. The Central Leather company was formed in 1904, solely for the purpose of acquiring the stock and the business of the United States Leather company, but the deal has been hanging fire for two years, chiefly because of the opposition of certain of the United States Leather Company's stockholders. According to the plan agreed upon, the capital stock of the consolidated corporation remains the same as that of the Central Leather company—$50,000,000—consisting of $40,000,000 preferred and the same amount of common stock.

The business section of the city is handsomely decorated in honor of the visitors. Flags adorn all public buildings and decorations of cotton cover the facades of many business houses. Another novelty in the decorations is the displaying of the word "Howdy" in large letters. In many places instead of the customary word "Welcome." The opening of the convention will take place tomorrow morning. Mayor G. P. Ward will welcome the visitors to the city and W. H. Seymour, president of the Alabama division of the association, will extend greeting on behalf of the state. The response for the visitors will be made by M. L. Johnson, president of the Georgia division. President Harvie Jordan will follow with his annual address. At the afternoon session the chief speakers will be R. R. Daney of Houston, C. C. Moore of Charlotte, and W. L. Foster of Shreveport. At the evening session L. B. Irwin, of Stillwater, Okla., will speak on the subject of the marketing and financing of the cotton crop by the growers.

H. H. ROGERS SUED FOR FOUR MILLION

Standard Oil Magnate Accused of Manipulating Gas Stocks in State of Massachusetts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Jan. 16.—The suit brought by Receiver George W. Pepper of the Bay State Gas company of Delaware against Harry H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, came up for hearing today before John C. Gray, acting as master under appointment of the United States circuit court. The action was brought to recover from Mr. Rogers certain profits, claimed to amount to about $2,000,000, alleged to have accrued to him from the sale of his holdings in the Brookline and Dorchester Gas Light companies and 1,000,000 of Boston United Gas bonds to the interests representing the New England Gas and Coke company. It is claimed that Mr. Rogers at the time held complete control of the Boston gas situation by virtue of his authority as trustee of the Bay State Gas company of Delaware, the Addicks holding company, and that he turned over his control to the New England Gas and Coke company at the same time that he sold to them his own securities.

VANHISE PREFERS PRESENT PLACE TO NEW POSITIONS

Head Of The State University Decides That He Will Not Seek Washington Place.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 16.—Dr. Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, chooses to remain at his work in Madison rather than accept the secretaryship of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C. This fact is presented, modestly veiled, in a brief statement issued yesterday from the university press bureau.
"In response to a letter to President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin from James B. Angell, regent of the Smithsonian Institution, in reference to the position of secretary, President Van Hise has replied asking President Angell not to present his name to the regents for consideration for that position."
From other sources it is learned that the position was "up to" President Van Hise, and all that was necessary was for him to say that he would accept it if elected. The secretaryship of the Smithsonian Institution is recognized as a position to which any great scientist may well aspire as the pinnacle of his career. The place must have been tempting to the Wisconsin president, for his mind runs along lines scientific, and the Washington position offers exceptional opportunities for scientific experimentation and investigation. The matter of salary hardly entered into the situation, for the pay at Smithsonian is only a little more than that now received by the university president. It was the desire to complete large plans for the improvement and development of the university that prevailed against the attractive power of the eastern place. While some of the friends of President Van Hise were of the opinion that he ought to accept the new opportunity, believing that there his ability as a scientist would have free reign rather than be confined and crowded by the great burden of administrative duties incumbent upon the president of the university, the fact that he has finally and definitely determined to remain at his post here is a source of gratification generally to the university and town. Particularly pleased are the members of the faculty, who believe that his great work for the university and his plans for the future demand his continued presence here, and that no other man could be placed at the head of the institution at this time without some impairment of the institution's progress.

WHITEHEAD'S PLAN WILL BE A SUCCESSFUL SOLUTION

His Idea Of Committee On Revision Of Bills Means Much Hard Work Will Be Avoided.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 16.—Men who have watched the political agonies of Wisconsin during the past ten years marvel at the apparent good will and harmony of purpose prevailing in the forty-eighth legislature of Wisconsin, now in session here. Scarcely a word is to be heard in the grossly that would indicate factional fights ahead, and the members are filled with determination to make the session one to be long remembered for expeditious work and important legislative product. A means for expediting the work is believed to be the new committee on revision of bills. All measures introduced for the first time are sent to this committee, which classifies them and cuts out all the superfluous verbiage. Then if several measures are introduced on the same subject, they are all sent to the proper committee for consideration on their merits and the result is that the subject is gone over once and for all, and does not have to be taken up as many times as there are bills introduced on the same subject. This new system is the outgrowth of the ideas of Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville, working with the legislative reference department. Before the present session the system has not been found as practicable as it is hoped to be this time, because heretofore the factional troubles have made much change in manner of procedure practically impossible.
The newest source for good feeling has been the announcement of assembly committees by Speaker H. L. Ekern. He is given credit for being as fair as the mind of a human and a politician can be. To E. W. LeRoy of Marinette, who came over so close to defeating Ekern for the speaker'ship, was given the very important place of chairman of the committee on transportation, which committee will handle the railroad legislation and probably the bills to regulate street cars and interurbans recommended by Governor Davidson.

SOCIETY HEATED

BY SOCIALIST

STUDENT OF ECONOMICS FROM

UNIVERSITY SPOKE TO SOCIAL UNION.

H. C. BUELL STRUCK KEYNOTE

Made Clear the Problem Which Socialism Is Claimed to Be a Solution of.

FEBRUARY MEETING.

Subject—Science.
Leader—John Arbuthnot.

After the usual supper of the Social

Union club, served in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, Charles H. Hemingway, leader of the meeting, announced a menu of warm tongue with brain garnishings, the subject for discussion being "Wealth, Its Accumulation and Distribution."

Present Methods of Piling

"That Present Methods of Accumulation Are Just and Fair," was affirmatively debated by Dr. T. W. Nuzum and negatively by Attorney W. H. Doughterty. Dr. Nuzum believed the competitive system above all others, because wealth was the greatest incentive of effort and all who would pay the price could attain it. Mr. Doughterty, announcing that he was scheduled to give the expert opinion of an unsuccessful man, said he would not content facts and draw false conclusions, by which method he could make the best address. But, he continued, there are some abuses practiced today that are altogether unfair; it is unjust to pay the railroad rates that furnish dividends to holders of stock in grossly overcapitalized companies; combinations in restraint of trade are unfair; the protective tariff is good as a whole but it must be revised. We should not content ourselves with the fact that conditions are supposed to be better now than fifty or seventy-five years ago; we must get the square deal—a decent pure food bill, a fair railroad rate bill, etc. Our competitive system is good, but there are a few bolts and nuts in it that need tightening.

Accumulations as Menace

F. P. Starr read Attorney E. H. Ryan's paper on "Vast Accumulations of Wealth as a Menace to the Nation." Mr. Ryan pointed out that in rich England, where accumulations of wealth among the nobility are fostered, there is more poverty than in any other progressive nation. In America, the protective tariff is responsible for many of the swollen fortunes, because the capitalist is protected while the laborer sells his all in a market where there was no competition. Though he said he did not wish his address to appear as a tirade against wealth he closed with an attack on Andrew Carnegie, calling the Janesville Library building a monument to the curses which we hate and a benevolence that mocks the homes that were destroyed by the donor. Mr. McNamara was given the opposite side of the menace question and said that while the United States was the richest country in the world of today or yesterday and every man in it was given the right to accumulate wealth there were methods of making and using that are wrong. These methods, he said, are the only menace. It is right to tax these immense fortunes but wrong to confiscate them.

Hendricks and Earle

"How to Prevent Vast Accumulations of Wealth and Distribute Them" was discussed by three speakers. "By the Individual" was the theme of Attorney Claude J. Hendricks. "By the State," that of Attorney Jesse Earle, and "By Socialism," that of William M. Leiserson of New York city, a

From Chicken-Pox

to Cholera

Cure-Alls No Longer Tolerated.

In early days every barber shop was an operating room and the town physician resorted to bleeding as the only cure for all ailments from chicken-pox to cholera. As a result, many, including our first President, died prematurely.

The present low rate of mortality is due in large measure to the advances made in medical science and the knowledge of the specific treatment needed for each disease known. There is a disease more common among American and English people than dyspepsia. So prevalent has it become that thousands suffer with it half unconsciously, consider the symptoms as natural to their physical constitution and resign themselves to living on in that condition.

There is a remedy for dyspepsia and only one, recommended and endorsed generally by physicians: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have stood the test of years of use by millions of sufferers, have been subjected to governmental analyses in Europe and America and alone have been found to contain the elements which Nature has put into the stomach for digestion—pepsin, diastase and other ferments.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the stomach and bowels in a perfectly natural way by helping them to do their work. If the stomach is weak in gastric juice, Stuart's Tablets make up the deficiency. If the muscles are inactive, Stuart's Tablets invigorate them. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of food entering the stomach, one grain of the active principle of these Tablets being capable of digesting 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and other foods. They are not cathartic pills; their action is simply that of a digestive.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure

nothing but dyspepsia, waterbrash, sour stomach and kindred ailments resulting from the imperfect digestion of food, but these diseases they positively cure.

We will gladly send you a trial package to prove the truth of our claims. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be gotten of all druggists at 50 cents. F. A. Stuart Co., 69 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

student of economics at Wisconsin

University, Mr. Hendricks said that the landlord, the laborer and the captain of industry combine to produce wealth. The landlord receives the rent, the laborer the wage, and the captain of industry the profits. There is no fault in this system, if we would be insistent upon the prohibition of public welfare and private right. Profit-sharing is the solution of the problem of labor and capital and has proven successful. Among the concerns that share profits is the Baker Manufacturing company of Evansville. Mr. Earle said that the province of the state was to tax accumulations by graduated income tax and progressive graduated inheritance tax. No one works for an inheritance and so the tax is not a burden.

Mr. Buell's Proposition

During the discussion of the evening H. C. Buell made clear the problem under debate. He said the question was on the proper division of that produced by machinery, owned by the capitalist and operated by the laborer. We first had the feudal system, then the indenture and now the wage. Through these stages the laborer has risen but he still seems to be getting the worst of it. He believed there is a remedy but considered the theory of socialism fallacious.

Socialist's Argument

Mr. Leiserson's explanation of socialism aroused one of the most heated discussions in the history of the club and it was past ten o'clock before the meeting adjourned. In part Mr. Leiserson said: Socialism is primarily for the working class, it is the ideal government for the workingmen and its success depends on their education. The socialist of today does not preach division of wealth.

It is a fact that one-eighth of the people own all the wealth. This concentration of wealth was predicted in 1848 by Karl Marx and Frederick Engels, who had studied the social laws and knew the conditions that would come just as the astronomer foretells an eclipse because he knows the physical laws. On these social laws are built the methods by which the social class will be given the chance. The competitive regime has created two classes, capital and labor; these are fighting and one must win. The capitalists keep wages down by stimulating immigration and the worker is given just enough to keep him in physical efficiency and raise more laborers. Where is the betterman the slave? When the latter was sick he was cared for by his master; when the worker is sick he loses his job.

Idle wealth is not a menace, but active wealth by keeping more laborers, produces more wealth. It is not Carnegie's abilities that bring him eight millions a year; it is the fact that his wealth is invested and laborers are producing for him.

The inheritance and income tax method simply confiscates small portions of wealth; profit-sharing has proven a failure and competition would be fine if all men were equal, but they are not. The tenement child is not the equal of one who is given all the advantages of healthy environment and education. But the law is equally applied to inequities and there lies an injustice. Competition is splendid when each man is his own master, but when one-eighth owns all the jobs they own the seven-eighths dependent on those jobs. We can't be men till we own our jobs and we can't get the square deal until capital and labor are one. Socialism says the people should be the state and let the state own all the jobs. Then when there is no accumulation on one side, no degradation on the other, there will be an economic foundation for Christian ethics.

The average socialist does not preach complete socialism; they want the state to own only those industries that follow the law of concentration. Farming is not a concentrative industry and it is proposed that farm lands always be private property. Under a socialistic rule, accumulations would not be a menace for wealth could not reproduce wealth. Then the incentive for accumulation would be gone and people would work only for what they needed and spend the remainder of the time in developing their lives in education and culture.

Answered Questions

Mr. Leiserson answered numerous questions put to him by different members. One query concerned incentive to work and the response was: under present conditions only one-eighth of the people have the incentive of wealth; the seven-eighths are not able to procure it, they work simply to exist; under a socialistic regime the incentive would be culture. Under these conditions and only under these can human nature be rid of its greed and avarice.

careful investigation of several propositions the Janesville lodge of the Elks have decided to establish themselves in permanent club rooms in the Myers Theatre block.

The second and third floors facing on Milwaukee street will be occupied by the order on a ten year lease and will be thoroughly remodelled to suit the convenience of the organization. He was next transferred to the important post of chancellor to the German embassy at St. Petersburg. He then became minister plenipotentiary at Bucharest. He was then made ambassador and sent to St. Petersburg. Next he was made ambassador to Rome. He finally succeeded Baron Marschall von Bieberstein as the imperial minister for foreign affairs. He was educated at the Universities of Lausanne, of Leipzig, and of Berlin. He fought throughout the entire war of 1870-71 between Prussia and France. His full name is Bernard Henry Martin Charles Von Buelow.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, January 16, 1867.—A Call.—As the city has no funds from which an appropriation can be made to continue the search for the remains of Maggie Emerson, the young woman burned in the ruins of the Hyatt House, I respectfully invite all citizens who will aid in digging, to be present at the ruins tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

HENRY PALMER, Mayor.

Another Fire and Another Almost.—A shanty in the vicinity of the Northwestern depot was burned down last night. It was occupied by a family who saved nearly all their goods. Name and particulars of loss not yet ascertained. No alarm was given.

Inman's grocery store, formerly occupied by Obed Dann, took fire last night from an ash pile carelessly left in an exposed situation. The fire was extinguished before it had made any headway.

Losses and Incidents by the Fires.—Morse & Hanson lost $2,000 worth of furniture, and considerable material nearly ready for use. Their total loss, including building, must be quite $12,000.

Mildred & Co. grocers, lost property to the amount of $25, mostly stolen in the excitement of the occasion.

Mildred Holland

Love and lies have formed the world drama from the time Adam and Eve invented the fig leaf apron. Love and lies form the base for Mildred Holland's splendid new play, "A Paradise of Lies," which will be given its first production in this city at the Myers theatre on Friday, Jan. 18.

The play is by Matthew Barry, and its scenes are laid in Italy at the end of the romantic eighteenth century. The action carries the characters from the scene of rustic peasant folk to the palaces of the Mediterranean.

The prologue is an episode which offers opportunity for rare dramatic treatment. A babe is cast away to die in the meshes of a lily pond. The unlabeled of creation is rescued in a dramatic manner, as her tiny form is held above the waters by a lily blossom.

The tragedy of the life of this castaway is the theme of the play. As "Lolita," the castaway, grown to a divinity of womanhood, Miss Holland dominates the entire piece from the time she sells her roses and wistaria at the shrine of Our Lady in the marketplace, passes through the camps with the roving gypsy players, until she discovers the secret of her birth.

Fame.

"There's three ways," observed the philosopher on the cracker barrel, "for a man to hand his name down to posterity: He's got to be a great warrior, or a great statesman, or a great scoundrel; and, by jinks, once in awhile there's a man that's all three!"

Use for the Humble Potato.

Many persons will be surprised to learn that the potato is used in France in the manufacture of imitation meerschaum pipes and "marble" billiard balls. After the potatoes are peeled they are kept for 33 hours in an eight per cent solution of sulphuric acid. They are then dried and pressed hard enough for use in making pipes. Under strong pressure they become solid enough to be turned into billiard balls.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Snow, warmer tonight and Thursday.

HARMONY EXISTS?

Dispatches from Madison announce that harmony exists in the legislative halls after many years of discord.

Speaker Ekern has made his committee appointments, has placed the members of the legislature in positions where they can be of the most use to their constituents and the state at large.

Clever politicians claim that his selection of committees and their chairmen have been most politic and that if anything is to heal the breach that has so long existed in the republican party, the present session of the legislature will accomplish it.

Among the chairmen of committees named is Captain Pliny Norcross, Janesville's representative in the lower house.

Captain Norcross is chairman of the committee on roads and bridges and is also a member of the judiciary committee, one of the most important of all.

That the senate was successfully organized without friction and that Senator Whitehead might have been chairman of the judiciary committee was related last week.

If the news of harmony is to be believed all republicans should rejoice that the days of internal strife are nearing an end.

But the question still remains. If harmony does come what is to become of the "fair-minded democrats" who have aided and kept this strife alive?

EARTHLY HORRORS

Day by day dispatches in the newspapers relate of horrors, by land and sea, due to carelessness of man and the influences of nature.

Late yesterday afternoon dispatches were received announcing that Kingston, the capital of Jamaica, had been destroyed by an earthquake and this morning fuller accounts of the horror are given showing that many hundreds lost their lives in the convulsions of nature.

The history of Jamaica has been one of disaster almost since Columbus first sighted the island on his voyage of discovery.

Revolutions, wars, earthquakes, fires and plagues have more than filled the history of this little island with its share of horrors.

The quake which came yesterday to Kingston was without warning. It caught the citizens unprepared, as was San Francisco a few months ago.

The meagre reports that have come to this country by round-about means show that the loss of life has been large, the destruction of buildings and property by quake and fire appalling.

It is one of the misfortunes that nature thrusts upon man over which human ingenuity has no control.

SOCIALISTIC DOCTRINES

Socialistic doctrines as set forth at the meeting of the Social Union club last evening are not the best doctrines to be preached into the minds of the young men who are members.

In securing such speakers the management of the club should remember that the majority of their members are young men just entering upon life and not introduce into their lives doctrines that may prejudice them against the existing conditions.

Continual dripping of water on a stone finally wears away the surface.

The railroads have been hammered so hard for months past that several new trains are to be placed on the runs between Janesville and Milwaukee, bringing that city into closer connection with the southern portion of the state.

Even the Milwaukee Free Press correspondent says that Spooner made one of the great speeches of the session in its Washington dispatches this morning.

This from the Free Press means something. To admit that Spooner could do anything great is bitter gall to their system.

Janesville can shine at last. Dr. J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad says that switching yards are hard to get.

The North-Western has the land for one near the city and it is probable that it will be built in the near future. This may mean much for the city.

With this cry for navigable rivers why not start a furor for the redemption of the Rock? Forty years ago a canal was planned which if built would have made this locality one of the waterways to the gulf.

After two years of carp fishing at Lake Koshkonong, an industry that was welcomed at the start, the sportsmen now discover that the continual seining of the lake drives all the game fish into retirement and frightens the ducks and geese away.

Every good thing has some evils attached.

So President Van Hise has decided he had rather be President of the University of Wisconsin than secretary of the Smithsonian Institute. Well, he has one job and not the other, so perhaps he is wise.

Senator Spooner flayed Ben Tillman in the United States Senate yesterday so that the "pitchfork" from South Carolina squirmed in his seat and tried to answer his little opponent but in vain.

The car shortage in the northwest continues to annoy the residents of that locality and makes capital for the enemies of the railroads to argue with for regulation of railroad affairs by commissions.

Present indications are that Janesville is at last to have a genuine club. While it is a secret organization that purposes to establish itself firmly in permanent quarters it is a move in the right direction.

LeRoy, the defeated candidate for speaker at Madison, has been made chairman of the committee on transportation, the committee at whose sessions all railway legislation must be discussed.

California has not yet quieted down on its anti-Japanese sentiment. Its congressmen appeared before the house committee in Washington considering this matter with strong arguments in favor of an exclusion act.

Roosevelt's statement as to the Brownsville episode should close the episode, except for Foraker who delights to stand in the limelight of his own speeches.

It is amusing to read of Japanese spies being discovered in different localities. One can almost believe that the United States has something to conceal and is afraid of Japan.

No Chinese labor on the isthmus. This is what the successful contractors are reported to have announced and doubtless will relieve the anti-Chinese element greatly.

Mayor Dunne of Chicago does not appear to be half as big with his M. O. idea as he was before the spring election two years ago.

No one should complain if they have to shovel snow these days. Think of the times next summer when you will wish the snow was here.

Russia is in daily fear of the assassin. The misdeeds of centuries have made the common people as vindictive as wolves.

Milwaukee is kept in a hot bath of iniquity continually. Reforms always do stir up affairs of even an overgrown village.

Good deep snows from now until spring mean thousands of dollars more to the farmers than a bare, cold, bleak winter does.

"Club" rooms where the players all have keys savor a trifle of the blind tigers of prohibition states.

Janesville is furnishing materials for millions of cigars for future consumption later.

Quiet Journal Speaks Rashly. Madison Journal: It isn't important how we get a two-cent railroad rate in Wisconsin so we get it.

Hankering for Trouble. Milwaukee News: There are some folks predicting panic with a particularity of detail suggesting that they find comfort in foreseeing calamity.

Finds Few Ready. Chicago Record-Herald: Pittsburg has a typhoid fever epidemic. This is particularly unfortunate in view of the small percentage of Pittsburg people who are prepared to die.

Something Left Unsaid. Philadelphia Ledger: Girls are to be employed as ticket-sellers on the elevated. It is said they possess dexterity in handling tickets. They will work for less wages also, but this isn't said.

The New Shah's Legacy. Fond du Lac: The new Shah of Persia has fallen heir not only to a kingdom but to a harem eight hundred strong. It is not yet known whether he considers it an asset or an incubus.

Spare Maids of Appleton. Oshkosh Northwestern: Appleton claims the fattest man in the northwest. This will only even matters up, however, for some of the Appleton girls are certainly about the slimmest in the state.

Pleasantly Seriously Taken. El Paso Herald: Mark Twain says he gets "30 cents a word for his brain children." During the holidays, his "brain children" could be bought on the bargain counter of any department store for "30 cents" a pound.

He Must Have Opposed School. La Crosse Leader-Press: La Crosse bears no grudges and when her normal school opens in the fall of 1908 she will be willing to admit the cantankerous editor of the Sparta Democrat to the practice classes.

Sentinel Shouts for a Restoration. Milwaukee Sentinel: Since the abolition of the canteen drunkenness and low vice, and desecrations (8 for every 100 enlisted men last year) have scandalously and notoriously increased. Now will congress take notice?

Wants to Be Fair, Always. Green Bay Gazette: Just to show that he is on the square in the matter, the President will rescind a portion of a clause in the Brownsville dismissal order which he has discovered is not strictly fair to all sides.

Why Don't You? Madison Journal: Now let us quit talking about "Uncle Ike" and "Boss Connor" and "J. J. Follette the dictator" and turn to the future. It is all right to chew the rag but there is a limit to a practice, which, like the gum vulgarism, eventually becomes obnoxious.

Warning from the Seldom-Right. Milwaukee Journal: The phenomena of good times are developing speculation and the usual high prices in money, materials, food and labor, which, in the past have been the last phase of a prosperous season and the precursor of hard times. Don't get gay.

Hammer on Ibsen's Tomb. Chicago Chronicle: The executors of Henrik Ibsen have erected a monument over his grave and upon it they have graven a hammer, which looks to be incongruous, for while many people had a hammer out for Henrik it is not recorded that he was a member of the anvil chorus.

One Donkey Among the Lot. New York Press: The second day drew to its close with the twelfth jurymen still unconvinced. "Well, gentlemen," said the court officer, entering quietly, "shall I, as usual, order twelve dinners?" "Make it," said the foreman, "eleven dinners and a bale of hay."

Got into Limelight Early. Chicago Record-Herald: William Alden Smith, who has been elected to succeed Senator Alger of Michigan, began business as a newsboy, and Charles Curtis, who will go to the senate from Kansas, was a jockey in his younger days. Evidently it is no longer necessary for our great men to have begun their careers as farm hands.

Doing Things to Dunne. Chicago Tribune: It has been demonstrated that a busy man, if properly approached, will sign a petition asking that he be hanged or driven out of town as a nuisance, but no man, however busy he may be, should plead this as an excuse for signing a petition circulated for the purpose of keeping Mayor Dunne in office four years more.

Harsh on Independent Phone Cos. Fond du Lac Reporter: Over in Sheboygan the independent telephone company has announced that in order to furnish its patrons with good service the rates must be raised about fifty per cent. The company finds that it cannot furnish the service demanded at the low rates originally fixed and in the future subscribers must pay from $2.75 to $3.75 a month for their telephones. Independent telephone companies generally base their rates on support on promises of cheaper service and in the majority of cases it proves to be "cheap" in quality as well as in price.

Cooper's Great Bank Project. Beloit Free Press: Congressman Cooper from his committee on insular affairs has introduced a bill aiming at the establishment of a great government bank in the Philippines, similar to the world famous agricultural bank of Egypt, founded by Lord Cromer. For centuries the islands, like Egypt, have suffered from usury. Small land owners are charged from 20 to 50 per cent interest and kept in poverty. Money will not enter the country for loaning at decent rates. So it is proposed to found a bank of $5,000,000 capital, guaranteed 3 to 4 per cent interest, to loan to the people. In Egypt this plan is held responsible for a large part of the new prosperity of the country, and has besides been immensely profitable.

Dead Against an Income Tax. Sheboygan Journal: Gov. Davidson is evidently planning to take up the work where La Follette left off. In fact, he has gone even farther than the late governor in some of his recommendations.

The public service corporations and franchise grabbers will find little comfort in the governor's message. It is drastic in some of its recommendations, but in the present mood of the public, it doubtless will receive general endorsement. Ten years ago, if the governor of Wisconsin had proposed a law that would annul all "perpetual" franchises at the end of twenty years, it would have created an uproar. Even the corporations affected will now probably say it was to be expected.

Wisconsin does not want an income tax, however, and it is doubtful if such a measure could be passed. There are income taxes in a number of states already. Some of them have been on the books for 200 years, and they are a farce. They cannot be enforced, and are a dead letter. Nobody will undertake a job that requires him to pry into his neighbor's private affairs to the extent of learning his income. He couldn't find out even if he took the job. The honest citizen would pay and the dishonest citizen would not, and couldn't be forced to pay. That is a "reform" that had better be omitted.

Wages Then and Now. Philadelphia Ledger: A Chicago antiquary has discovered that Columbus received a salary of $320. He estimates that the whole cost of the expedition that found America was about $7,000. John Knox received a salary of $220, and a leading lawyer in the time of Edward IV. was content with a fee which amounted to $1 in our money. A sumptuous Christmas dinner could be bought then for 17 cents. A dollar went a long way in those days, but the salaries of professional men and the wages of labor seem absurdly meager when compared with the best paid ability and skill in these modern days. The good old times would present no attractions to those who imagine there was a time when labor was much better rewarded than it is today. Despite the monopolies and the trusts, a moderate fortune can be acquired now more readily than it could in former times. In 1820 a man who had $20,000 was accounted rich, and such men were scarce. A competence of that amount does not excite comment now.

Pliny Norcross and Others. Geo. F. Grassie in the Evening Wisconsin: Pliny Norcross of Janesville, one of the veterans, and at the same time, one of the cleverest of the members, turned a pretty neat compliment for Speaker Ekern and carried out the spirit of fun started by Barney Potter, the democratic Nestor. The new rules provide that the speaker of the assembly shall be elected in such and such a way and so forth "and shall serve one session." One session actually means one day's session, while the purpose of the rule, of course, was one legislative session. After Mr. Ekern had been escorted to his seat, Mr. Potter arose to ask his construction of that provision of the rules. Mr. Ekern asked Mr. Norcross to give his opinion of the matter. Mr. Norcross had been woolgathering at the time and had to have the point put to him again, and then without the slightest hesitation said, "From what I know of the speaker, he will be speaker all during this session of the legislature and longer, too, unless he is promoted to some higher position."

And Norcross, the stiffest of all stalwarts, shying bouquets to Ekern, the hardest-hearted halfbreed in captivity. Who says harmony is not restored in the republican party in Wisconsin.

Still, I couldn't help laughing when Speaker Ekern took his seat after being ushered up with due solemnity by a committee of those whom he had beaten out for the place, and after the applause had died down, took from his inside pocket a manuscript from which he read that it was real nice to have had a good sharp contest with such good feeling and that there was certainly unity in the party now, which was fine and all that, but that we mustn't keep unity at the expense of principle. There's that old principle again. Now, as for me, I'm like Dave Rose and believe that "dying for principle is all damned rot" when your principle is no good. There are principles and principles and when a man's principles are chiefly to get the plums and keep them, then principle is no better than unity, nor so good. Howsoever, I wouldn't say that such is the fact in Ekern's case. A few more weeks will tell. He's a rather shrewd, clever, shifty sort of a chap is Ekern, but for all that inclined to be pretty near on the square unless compelled by the exigencies of the occasion to be otherwise. For the present, that principle business is all right, but if anyone starts to commit crime in the name of principle, some one is likely to call a halt.

STOOD STUPEFIED IN STOLEN BUGGY

Martin Boone of Rockford, Ill., supposed to have been drugged in Beloit last night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Beloit, Wis., Jan. 16.—The horse and carriage of Dr. C. A. Fox was driven away from the city hospital here about eleven o'clock last night, while the physician was attending a case. The rig was found later in the northern part of the city and a stranger stood in the box of the buggy in a seemingly dazed condition. He was brought into municipal court this morning and charged with horse-stealing. He said his name was Martin Boone and his home was Rockford, Ill. He related coming to Beloit with one William Knapp yesterday afternoon and making the rounds of the saloons. He says he remembers nothing that occurred after six o'clock and the police are of the theory that he was drugged, placed in the carriage and driven off. Though no money was left in his clothing it is not thought he was robbed for he had but $12 when he arrived here. The case against Boone was adjourned until Knapp can be found to relate his story of the day's events.

Just as the train was nearing Chicago Williams broke his hand cuffs and jumped through the window of the train, gaining his feet and escaping before the officers could reach where he had left the train.

REPORTS JARRED COUNTY FATHERS

SCHOOL CONDITIONS SEEMED TOO BLUNTLY PUT.

BY THE SUPERINTENDENTS

And a Move to Eliminate Their "Lectures" From the Printed Proceedings Resulted.

Cross-rubbing in the shape of some blunt statements that in certain sections of the county the farmers take better care of their pigs than their children, "raised the dander" of the county board this morning and some of the members sought to have the county school superintendents' reports excluded from the printed proceedings of the supervisors where they have had a place up to this time. An amendment providing that they should be printed in separate pamphlets, the edition to consist of 1,000 copies and to cost not more than $50, was further amended by a resolution to the effect that the reports with the exception of the financial statements, should be eliminated altogether, so far as printed record was concerned. Certain members told Supts. Hemingway and O. D. Antisdal that the board was tired of being lectured. Final action in the matter had not been taken when the supervisors adjourned for the noon recess.

With reference to the notice from the board of control to the effect that given books must be substituted for the hammocks at the county jail, Supervisor Woodruff introduced a resolution calling for an opinion from the district attorney as to whether or not a verbal order from the board of control to county officers, with regard to changes in county buildings, is binding and can be legally enforced.

Poor Superintendent Geo. Seignier reported that he had settled bills 111 and 112. The matter of a poor family belonging in Ozaukee county was referred back to Supt. Kenyon and District Atty. Fisher for settlement. The salaries of the 1st and 2nd district school superintendents were fixed at $1,000 a year.

At the afternoon session this matter was not disposed of. Twenty dollars a month was appropriated for stenographic and telephone hire for the district attorney and the sum of eighteen hundred dollars for new iron desks and other equipments of the register of deeds' office. Thirty-five hundred dollars was appropriated for a new barn at the county farm. Superintendent of Assessments Starr was on the grill at four o'clock explaining why he taxed the factories on a basis of fifty per cent and other property at eighty per cent of their true valuation.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE

Twenty of Their Friends Assembled at Home of Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Gentle Last Evening.

At the home of Frank Gentle on Park street last evening a surprise party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lawrence who expect to depart for their new home in Seattle about the 25th of this month. Ten couples enjoyed the card playing and a tempting luncheon and before departing the ladies presented Mrs. Lawrence with a handsome purse and the gentlemen tendered Mr. Lawrence a fine umbrella. Mr. Lawrence will travel through the western states for a Chicago liquor house. The man who is to succeed him in charge of the Gund Brewing Co.'s business in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois has not been appointed, so far as known.

FELL BACKWARD INTO A TREACHEROUS BOX

William E. Mohns Was Severely Injured at the Fair Store This Morning.

In an effort to repair a stove pipe in the second story of the building on South River street, William E. Mohns, meat-cutter at the Fair Store, climbed up onto a 3 1/2-foot wooden box, about eighteen inches deep and open on one side, which had been placed on end for the purpose. He was busily engaged in the work when the improvised perch, unbalanced by a sudden shifting of the weight, toppled over in such a manner as to receive and partially encase his human burden as it fell. A companion, Mr. Allen, called down the stove-hole for help and William Richter, who heard the call, asked Officer Fred Benke, who happened to be in front of the counter, to go up and see what the matter was. Officer Benke found Mr. Mohns jammed into his wooden prison with just his head and feet protruding and groaning loudly as consciousness returned. The first effort to get the luckless man out of the box was abandoned when he cried out as if in terrible agony, but a second one proved successful and he was placed on an improvised bed of overcoats, pending the arrival of the ambulance and Dr. W. J. Palmer. In the meantime word was sent to Wilbur Carle, the proprietor, who had not yet left his home, and the latter hastened to the residence at 114 North Academy street to acquaint Mrs. Mohns with what had transpired.

Upon examination at the home, Dr. Palmer found that the pulse was normal, that the patient was able to move his limbs, that no bones were broken, and that as far as could be ascertained he had sustained only a severe wrenching of the neck with possible injuries to the spinal column at that point. The extent of these latter injuries cannot be known for some days, but present probabilities point to complete recovery.

Mr. Mohns is a member of Lodge No. 90 of the Odd Fellows, Lodge No. 55 of the Masons, and several other fraternal organizations, and has a host of friends in the city who will deeply sympathize with him in his misfortune.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE BEFORE JUDGE SALE

Oly Martin Hanson of Newark Seeks to Take Child of Oly Osterson From Christian Fossum of Plymouth.

In county court today numerous witnesses are testifying in the habeas corpus action brought by Oly Martin Hanson of the town of Newark to obtain possession of eleven year old Olive Osterson, daughter of Oly Osterson who is now in Dakota, who was adopted by Christian Fossum of the town of Plymouth after her mother's death some eight years ago. Hanson claims that Osterson has given him the power of attorney and wishes to place her in charge of a niece of his who will take her to Dakota, supposedly to the neighborhood where the father is now living. The little girl, herself, is unwilling to leave the Fossum family where she has received the best of treatment, and Mr. Fossum is putting up an uncompromising fight against the proposed proceeding, through his attorney, Charles Pierce. T. D. Woolsey of Beloit represents the plaintiff.

HORSE FELL DOWN IN FRONT OF STREET CAR

Mrs. Roach Had a Narrow Escape from Serious Injury on Milwaukee Street Yesterday.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon a horse driven by Mrs. Roach, who lives just outside the city limits, fell on the street car track near the Grand hotel just as an eastbound car was approaching. The fender touched the poor beast's body just as the motorer brought the car to a stop. City Marshal Appleby, who had just been around the corner of Academy street to learn for certain that it was Goodman's luck which tore down Alderman Fish's new street sign, and post in that locality, ran to the rescue. Mrs. Roach made no demonstration and remained seated in the buggy until the horse had been unhitched and raised, uninjured, to its feet. A broken thill was the only damage sustained.

BILL FOR SHIP SUBSIDY WINS

HOUSE COMMITTEE ADOPTS COM-PROMISE MEASURE.

THE FIGHT LASTS ALL DAY

Annual Subvention of About $3,750,
000 Provided for Seven Mail
Lines to South America and Orient.

Washington, Jan. 16.—After a fight which lasted all day Tuesday and extended to the floor of the house, threatening to bring about much ill-bustering at one time, the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries finally decided at six o'clock p. m., by a vote of 8 to 7, to make a favorable report on a ship subsidy bill prepared by Mr. Littauer of New York, as a substitute for the Grosvenor bill which has been under consideration for many weeks.

The members of the committee who supported the measure were Messrs. Grosvenor, Miner, Littlefield, Fordney, Wacker, Humphrey, Watson and Littauer, all Republicans. The negative votes were cast by Messrs. Birdsell, Wilson and Hinchey, Republicans, and Goulden, Maynard, Shirley and Patterson, Democrats.

Seven Subsidized Lines.
Seven subsidized mail lines are provided for in the bill to be reported, with an annual subvention estimated at $3,750,000. Two of the lines are to be from the Atlantic coast to South America, and one from the Gulf of Mexico to Colon. From the Pacific coast there are to be three lines to the Orient and one line to the west coast of South America.

Only two changes were made by the committee in the bill as originally drawn by Mr. Littauer. Instead of actually fixing San Francisco and the Puget Sound as the points of departure of the two lines to Japan, China and the Philippines, the committee amended Mr. Littauer's bill so that one of the lines is to start from a point north of Cape Mendocino and the other from a point south of Cape Mendocino.

Filibusters Are Beaten.
At the morning session of the committee the senate ship subsidy bill, which carries a tonnage subsidy and is said to be extremely distasteful to Speaker Cannon, was laid before the committee by Mr. Littauer, and several Democrats voted for it. Republicans changed their votes in order to defeat it and get a compromise bill under consideration which it was thought would have a better chance with Republican house leaders. The committee adjourned to meet again at four o'clock, and when an attempt was made to have the house adjourn at that time the Democrats began a filibuster in an attempt to keep the house in session, thus preventing the merchant marine and fisheries committee from meeting and reaching an agreement. The minority leader, Mr. Williams, demanded tellers and ayes and nays on the adjournment vote, but a count showed that a quorum was not present and the house adjourned by a vote of 143 to 77.

Dover, Del., Jan. 16.—Harry A. Richardson (Republican) was Tuesday formally elected United States senator to succeed J. Frank Allee. Both houses of the legislature balloted separately at noon. The first vote was taken in the senate, resulting in 11 votes for Richardson and five for Willard Saulsbury (Democrat). Richardson received 23 votes in the house and Saulsbury 10.

Denver, Col., Jan. 16.—Simon Guggenheim (Republican) was elected United States senator to succeed Thomas M. Patterson, Democrat, by the Colorado legislature at noon Tuesday.

NORTHWEST SNOW BOUND

RAILWAYS BURIED IN DRIFTS
THIRTY FEET DEEP.

Wind Blows a Furious Gale and Severe Cold Prevails.—Many Trains Abandoned.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 16.—Snow, deep and boundless, still stretches over the tracks of the western railroads and the wind still continues to blow a furious gale. To make matters worse, the temperature has fallen many degrees.

It was reported at the Great Northern general office that the mercury registered 55 degrees below zero Tuesday morning at Browning, Mont. It was further stated that all along the line, according to the thermometer of the agents, there is no point between Grand Forks and Spokane where the maximum temperature is 38 degrees below zero. The government reports do not give such marks as the reports of the agents, but they bear out the statement that the winter is unusually cold.

Great Northern employees are striving valiantly in their battle against the snow drifts, which are so dry and light that as soon as they are cleared away from one spot they drift back again and the wind, which continues to rage, piles the snow up in banks 20 and 30 feet high.

On the Soo line conditions are as bad or worse than on the Great Northern. The line between Kenmare and Thief River falls has been abandoned. This part of the line is not in the worst of the snow-bound district.

Trains which connect with the Canadian Pacific railway trains at Moose Jaw have been delayed so badly that service is almost at a standstill. The Canadian Pacific railway service in Canada, especially in the western part, has been stopped. All the telegraph wires are down, and it is impossible to get trains through the drifts.

The storm is the worst that has occurred within the last ten years. Communication with Leyte and Samar has been cut off for the last six days and only meager particulars of the storm were received.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Up to 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the war department had received no report of the typhoon that swept the islands of Leyte and Samar last Thursday.

NOTES OF THE RAILWAYS

The Latest Innovation of the Canadian Pacific.

QUICK LUNCH SERVICE EN ROUTE

Smokeless Train Shed Invented For Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Road—An Innovation To Avert
Accidents—The Twentieth Century
Railroad Crossing.

The latest innovation of the Canadian Pacific for the convenience of travelers on its lines is a quick lunch car, and it is said to be proving immensely popular. The new car is a regulation seventy-two foot diner, but instead of being equipped with tables and seats for thirty-six people it is furnished with a lunch counter which will afford accommodation for fifty or more people at one time, just as in the best equipped quick lunch counters on city business streets.

The car is a marvel of economy in space and will be used chiefly for pilgrimages and long distance excursion trains, which carry more people than could possibly find accommodation in the one or two dining cars that are carried by a big train.

The new lunch car is equipped with cold storage and a big cooking range of the familiar grill room hooded type, and behind the counter there is plenty of room for the cooks and attendants. Moreover, the car has a cellar—an unusual equipment for a railroad train. The cellar is only two or three feet deep, but it is well refrigerated, and has accommodation for a quantity of provisions, enough for a two or three days' run. The interior of the counter is fitted up with cold storage facilities for carrying milk and other perishable foods. The water and other course supplies are carried in tanks on the roof. An excellent cheap quick lunch is furnished, a la carte, and wherever the car has been used it has been freely patronized.

A smokeless train shed has been invented by Lincoln Bush, chief engineer for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road. As well as relieving the passengers from the discomfort of breathing the noxious gases, with which the average train shed is filled, it serves the purpose of protecting the ironwork of the structure from disintegration and decay through the attacks made upon it by these same gases. The device has been utilized in the construction of the Lackawanna's new train shed at Hoboken. The shed is an extensive one. It has fourteen tracks under cover and embraces four acres of ground. The shed is much lighter than the average, being a series of arches supported by rows of cast iron columns. To get rid of the smoke and gas Engineer Bush has arranged that exactly over the center of each track there is a concrete smoke duct the whole length of the shed, the walls of which are carried down so that the tops of most of the stacks enter the duct. This is simply a long parallel slot in the roof two and one-half feet wide.

An invention has just been patented in England which, by use of the telephone, promises to avert railway accidents that arise from the inability of the engine driver to see the signals along the line. He will be apprised of danger by audible signals in the engine itself, and these warnings will be given automatically.

The inventor, Frederick Hall of Eastbourne, an electrical engineer as well as an artist whose pictures have often been exhibited in the academy, explains the system in this manner:

Every signal box and engine would be fitted with an ordinary telephonic instrument. The engine would have two wires reaching down to the line. That in the box would be connected with wires to a section of the line which would be electrified whenever the signals were set against the train, but not when the line was clear, the electrification being carried out automatically.

E. T. Dumas of Toledo has invented what is called the twentieth century railroad crossing, and it will be tested by the Toledo terminal within a short time. Mr. Dumas claims for his invention the following points:

Eliminates bumping in crossing another railroad; does not touch tracks of intersecting railroad; elevating car can be put in curves at crossings; no guard rails used, as in the old style of crossings, as bumping is eliminated; it lengthens the life of the crossing; no bolts to work loose; no wear or tear on rolling stock and a number of other improvements over the present crossings. In appearance the new crossing is practically the same as the ones now in use, but there is a vast difference in the class of material used, and the new one is said to be more secure. Pennsylvania railroad officials will witness the test.

Mustache the Correct Thing Now.

The thin mustache is in again. The smooth faced man has had his day, and the chap with the drooping mustache must chop the droop off and curl up the ends if he wants to be considered smart, says the New York American. Women have ever favored smooth faced men, who themselves are strong promoters of the new fad. A hirsute disguise may prevent their being taken for flunkies, an annoyance to which they constantly are subjected. Especially is this true when they are in evening clothes. Though the work of raising a mustache may be irksome, it is not so hard as it is the sacrificing of the beard of a lifetime.

Pleased with Mission Work

A prominent leader in the British parliament, R. W. Perks, stated recently that in order to test the efficacy of foreign mission work he placed a report of 20 years ago side by side with one of the present time and compared the figures. As a result of his study he increased his annual gift for this work from $50 to $250.

The Helmet in the Schoolroom.
German schoolmasters are said to have had much to do with the victory of the Germans in their late war with France, and in this connection Sir Henry Roscoe tells this incident of his inspection of the professional school in Rouen, France: "Among the usual objects I noted with surprise a Prussian soldier's helmet. On being asked why he placed it there the schoolmaster stated that it was picked up in the streets of Rouen during the German invasion. And he added that it was of great service to him, for when the scholars did not attend to their work he used to bring this down and put it in his desk and, pointing to it, say: 'Now, if you do not make progress and learn properly this will happen to you again.' The surest way to bring it upon you is to neglect your studies and grow up in ignorance and to become inferior in intellectual training. The display of that helmet explained the director, never fails to bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of my students and to rouse their patriotism and their zeal for their studies."

Women Cannot Cut Diamonds.

"A lot of women seem to be possessed these days of an ambition to learn the trade of diamond cutting," the New York Sun reports one jeweler as saying. "Every little while an applicant for a situation as an apprentice gives us a call. But we can't afford to give them a trial. They can never master the art. In other branches of the jewelry trade women have made some unqualified successes. Not one of Eve's daughters, from royalty down, I should say, that isn't an artist in the weaving of diamonds. Many are well versed in the tricks of buying and selling them, while others give excellent satisfaction in polishing and preparing them for the market. But when it comes to the real cutting of the stones they lack the patience, judgment and steadiness of nerve which constitute the expert's stock in trade."

The Marvel of Notre Dame.

Often as I have seen Notre Dame, the marvel of it never grows less. I go to Paris with no thought or time for it, busy about many other things, and then on my way over one of the bridges across the river perhaps I see it again on its island, the beautiful towers high above the high roofs of houses and palaces, and the view, now so familiar, strikes me afresh with all the wonder of my first impression. The wonder only seems greater if I turn, as I am always tempted to, and walk down the quays on the left bank, the towers before me and with every step coming more and more completely together, by the Pont Neuf, to the island and at last to the great square where Notre Dame fronts me in its superb calm.—Elizabeth Robins Pennell in Century.

Why He Quit the Game.

"Take a hand?" queried Smith as Jones stood watching the poker game at the club.

"No, Quit."
"What's the matter—cold feet?"
"No, I always come out loser."
"I never saw you lose in my life."
"I know you never saw me, but I lose. If I happen to win a little here, my wife smilingly insists on my dividing my winnings when I go home. If I lose, I get a lecture on the evils of gambling, and the next day, in order to get even, my wife runs bills down town to the amount I lost. If I tell her I came out just even, she takes half the money to prevent my losing all I have, so I am bound to lose."

The Dozen.

In all the civilized countries of the world thirteen is referred to as being somebody's "dozen." In America, Australia, Great Britain (present day) and several other lands that number is said to be a "baker's dozen." In Italy it is referred to as the "cobblers' dozen," there being a tradition that there was formerly a law which compelled cobblers to put twelve tracks or nails round the edge of a boot heel. Finally, when the nails became cheap, a center nail was driven for luck.

Warned in Time.

A man visiting a lunatic asylum recently was conversing with some of the outdoor patients when a man rode up on horseback. The place called for comment among the party, and one of the patients said he had seen a horse running much faster than that one. "Oh," exclaimed the visitor sotto voce, "I have seen a horse flying." "Dinna let the doctor hear ye say that," my man," interjected an old Scotch lunatic. There's hark in here for far less than feein' horses."

Intrepidity.

Intrepidity is an extraordinary strength of soul, which raises it above the troubles, disorders and emotions which the sight of great perils can arouse in it. Her Suggestion.

Mistress—I don't want you to have so much company. You have more callers in a day than I have in a week. Domestic—Well, mum, perhaps if you'd try to be a little more agreeable you'd have as many friends as I have.

Superfluities.

Mrs. Knicker—Does your husband ever complain if his buttons are missing? Mrs. Bocker—No; he has to fasten so many of mine that he wouldn't have time for his own, any way.—New York Sun.

The Bartered Bridegroom.

There are held here many "confidential weddings," as they are called when the ceremony is kept unusually quiet. But sometimes they are too confidential to please the relatives of the parties. The coercion of prospective brides under such circumstances is a proceeding well authenticated in fact and fiction. A kidnapped bridegroom, however, is unusual, though he happened at St. George's not long ago. He was a gentleman of position, and he wished to marry a lady who had nursed him through an illness. There was no cause or just impediment save social rank. The gentleman was determined, and the lady seconded his plans admirably. But the day and the details leaked out, and before the time fixed the bridegroom's male relatives deployed strategically through Madison street and surrounded the church. He drove up in a hansom cab. With his eyes fixed on the expectant bride, he prepared to alight. An athletic uncle and a brother sprang forward; thrust him back, with a "Glad to meet you, old fellow" manner that deceived the cabman, who obeyed the quick direction he heard and drove the three away. The lady, with tears in her eyes, went into the vestry. "There will be no wedding," she said. "They've run away with him." And that was the last St. George's heard of them.—London Mail.

RHEUMATISM WORSE FROM YEAR TO YEAR

The cause of Rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought on by indigestion, chronic constipation, weak kidneys and a general sluggish condition of the entire system. The refuse and waste matter of the body is not carried out as nature intends, but is left to ferment and sour and generate uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. The first evidence of Rheumatism is usually little wandering pains in the muscles and joints, or a tender, sensitive place on the flesh. These are often so slight that nothing is thought of them and they pass away; but with each recurrence the trouble becomes more severe, and from slight wandering pains and excited nerves, Rheumatism grows to be a painful and almost constant trouble. The longer the poison remains in the blood the firmer hold the trouble gets on the system. Each day the acid deposit is increasing and the disease grows worse from year to year. After awhile the joints become coated with a corrosive substance which seriously interferes with their working and movements and sometimes they become permanently stiff and useless. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by going down into the blood and attacking the disease at its head. It neutralizes the poisons and acids and dissolves the salts and irritating deposits, making the blood stream pure, fresh and healthy. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is therefore a safe remedy. When the blood has been purified by S. S. S., the pains and aches pass away, and the cure is permanent. Nothing will relieve indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach a perfect rest.

You can't reasonably expect that any weak stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to do the full work that a sound stomach should do.

STRIKE DOES NOT PAID BY MINERS

SEATS OF MANY DELEGATES ARE CONTESTED.

REPORT BY PRESIDENT

Mitchell Notes Decrease of Membership in Anthracite Field—Wants Interstate Conference Revised.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 16.—The eighteenth annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America, which opened here at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, devoted the entire time of both morning and afternoon sessions to the right of delegates representing unions which had failed to pay the extra strike assessment of 50 cents per week to be seated, and to hearing the reports of the general officers of the organization.

The matter of seating the delegates whose seats were contested was referred back to the credentials committee, but up to the time of adjournment, at four o'clock in the afternoon, this committee had not rendered a decision.

Assessment Not Levied.

During the presentation of the report of the credentials committee, at the morning session it developed that the national organization had failed to replenish its "million dollar" defense fund by levying an assessment of 50 cents per week against each miner. This assessment was authorized during the national suspension of mining last year. It is still in effect but the report of the credentials committee showed that a large percentage of the members of the organization had failed to comply with the order.

President Mitchell Reports.

The afternoon session was called to order at 1:50 p. m. by President Mitchell, who called for the report of the committee on rules and order of business. The report was unanimously adopted.

President Mitchell then submitted his annual report. He laid especial emphasis in his report to the decrease in membership in the anthracite field and advocated putting a number of organizers in that field. He urged the reestablishment of the interstate conference and recommended that the executive committee make efforts to reestablish relations with the operators in the central competitive field. He laid stress upon the apathy prevalent among the miners toward their duties to the organization.

Secretary-treasurer W. D. Wilson submitted his financial report for the year ending November 30, 1906. The present balance in the treasury, according to the report, is $337,906.71.

F. C. FAIRBANKS INDICTED.

Vice President's Son Accused of Perjury in Ohio.

Steubenville, O., Jan. 16.—A sensation was created here Tuesday by the grand jury returning an indictment for perjury against F. C. Fairbanks, son of Vice President Fairbanks, for perjury in swearing relating to his marriage to Miss Scott, of Pittsburg.

The charge is that Mr. Fairbanks went to Steubenville and disguised himself as a working man and said that he was from Adams county, and that Miss Scott was a resident of the county. On this statement he secured a marriage license and they were married and left the town immediately. The prosecutor says that the papers will be served upon Fairbanks as soon as it can be done.

Springfield, O., Jan. 16.—F. C. Fairbanks said Tuesday night: "I took no oath whatever in the probate court at Steubenville. I say this emphatically as my memory in regard to this is distinct. I answered their questions, but there was no affidavit and no oath administered."

Gov. Deneen's Threat if Railway Suit Is Hampered.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 16.—Gov. This threat was made necessary by Senator Henry Evans, of United States Senator A. J. Hopkins' district, who presented to the senate Tuesday morning a resolution designed to tie up the appropriation asked by the governor, and hold the investigation for lack of funds.

Senator Simmons Renominated.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 16.—The Democratic caucus of the general assembly of North Carolina Tuesday night nominated United States Senator F. M. Simmons for a second term. His election is certain, as the general assembly has 141 Democratic members against 25 Republicans and one independent.

CHAPTER XV.

OCTOBER had been a month of exceptionally pleasant weather, but in the night of Nov. 1 Bradley woke to feel the old house trembling and to hear the rain thundering on the roof overhead and rattling against the windows.

While he was dressing he heard voices in the road below and, opening the window, saw Jim Rogers, the fish peddler, sitting in his wagon with the rain sliding from the peak of his son's wetter and carrying on a shouted conversation with Mrs. Baker.

"What did you say 'twas, Mr. Rogers?" screamed the old lady, speaking through the closed blinds of her chamber window.

"The Freedom—big six masted coal barge. She's high and dry on the Razorback. Hawser parted. The tug's tryin' to get her off now, but Cap'n Knowles telephoned Sam Hardy that 'twas 'n' use."

Bradley didn't hear the last part of the conversation. He struggled into his clothes, and then, putting on his slippers, ran out of the house and down the road.

Bradley's objective point was the postoffice. He wanted to see Hardy and learn the particulars, but Captain Titcomb was there before him. They met at the door. The captain's eyes were shining.

"Come on, Brad," he said. "I was just goin' to send for you. I know all about it."

He told the story as they walked to the wharf in the pouring rain. It was as Rogers had said. The great barge, twin sister of the Liberty, was on her way from Boston to New York under tow. The storm had come up unexpectedly, and the hawser had parted. Now she was fast on the Razorback shoal.

"Crimestee!" exclaimed the captain. "Won't she be a job! Brad, if you and me could only have the chance!"

Alvin Bearse, who boarded nowadays at the house of a relative in Orham, was already on board the Diving Belle when the partners reached her.

"She's hard and fast for sure," muttered Captain Titcomb when they reached the bulk. "Five thousand tons of coal inside of her and this no-theater drivin' her farther on every minute. I swan to man, Brad, she's there for awhile. No tug—no three tugs, fur's that goes—can haul her off. Member what I said when the Liberty come so near landin' where she is? It's an anchor and cable job, and we can do that as well as anybody and cheaper than the big tugs. If they'll only let us try! By crimestee, they've got to!"

That evening the train brought representatives of three large wrecking companies to Orham. The younger Mr. Cook came also. The partners saw him, but he would give them no satisfaction. "You must come to Boston tomorrow if you want to bid," he said.

"But I tell you frankly, price isn't the only thing—we must be satisfied that the job can be carried through." It was evident that he didn't believe they could handle it.

But Bradley and the captain were certain they could handle it if the chance was given them. Seventy men, at least, would be needed, and to house and feed them was the problem. The Boston Salvage company had lighters and barges for this purpose and they had not. But there was the big shanty at the Point, the one in which the picnic had been held. Thirty men had lived and slept there before. By building new bunks and slinging hammocks twice that number at least could find room. The rest must occupy other shanties or come up to Orham at night. The partners schemed and figured until nearly 4 o'clock in the morning.

One of them must go to Boston that day. The captain said Bradley ought to go because Cook knew him, but the junior partner didn't agree.

"You go, Cap'n Ez," he said, with decision. "You're a better bargainer than I am, and it'll take a good talker and a clever trader to land this job in the face of the competition. Go, and good luck be with you!"

So the captain went on the first train. He promised to telegraph as soon as a decision was reached.

But no telegram came that day. All the next forenoon Bradley hung about the station waiting. The noon train arrived; no captain, and still no word. He determined to wait until the evening train arrived, and then, if the captain didn't come, to telegraph. But the first man off the train was Captain Titcomb.

"Didn't get it, hey?" asked Bradley. "Oh, I got it! Yes, I got it! Now, don't ask any more questions here. Come on down to my room."

He was silent all the way to the Traveler's Rest and, for a man who had just secured the greatest contract of his business life, seemed strangely downcast. When they reached the room he locked the door and threw his overcoat and hat on the sofa.

"Well," he said slowly, "I made Boston all right and stood for Cook & Sons' under full canvas. I baited the young squirt with the hay on his upper lip, and asked him if the old man was in. 'What do you want to see him for?' says he. 'Son,' says I, 'you trot along like a good little boy and tell the old man that the feller that's goin' to get the Freedom off Orham shoal is out here.' That kind of fetched him over with a start, and he went in and told Cook. In a minute out he comes and pilots me into the skipper's stateroom."

"I callate Cook was expectin' to see another feller. 'Are you from the Salvage company?' says he. 'No,' says I, 'I'm from Orham. My partner's a young feller name of Nickerson. He's the one you picked out to lift the Liberty's anchor that time.' Well, that way of puttin' it made him laugh, and he told me to go ahead and spit my yarn, only be quick. I spun it, but I didn't surin that I was quick. I never talked so afore in my life, though I've beat it once afore. When I have anchor fully he says, 'Cap'n, there's nothin' the matter with your nerve, is there?' I told him no, I hadn't had to take physic for it. 'Well,' says he, 'I'd like to give you the job, but you ain't big enough. This ain't anchor draggin'."

"Then I got after him again, told him about the new schooner, drew a diagram of the shoal and made it plain just how she'd get to be got off 't was done at all and that we could do it as well as anybody else in the world and a whole lot cheaper. At last he told me to come in and see him again late that afternoon."

"I was round on time, you bet! The hay tip chap told me the old man had gone for the day, but that he'd left word that 'twas no use, our firm wasn't big enough for the job. Says I to lay lip. 'Where's this old man live?' He didn't know, bein' a good liar. I asked him in an interested sort of way if he was dead sure where he lived himself and went out to paw over the directory. Inside of an hour I was on an electric car bound for Brookline and Cook's home."

"Pretty soon down comes Cook in a swallertail coat. He looked mad. 'Is it you?' he says. 'Didn't you get my message?' I told him I'd got it, but that 'twouldn't be fair to him to let that end it. Pretty soon young Cook come in, and he listened too."

"Finally the old man says, 'Well, Titcomb, what's your figger?' I told him what you and me had agreed on. He seemed surprised, I thought. Then he and his son went into the next room and talked. 'When they come back he says, 'Titcomb, you've got the perseverance of the devil or that partner of yours.' Put you in good company, hey, Brad? 'Your price, I don't mind tellin' you,' he goes on, 'is lower than any one else has given. If you were a bigger concern I guess I'd give the job to you. Anyway, you come in and see me tomorrow.'"

"Well, this mornin' I was at his office when the doors opened. And there I set until after 2 this afternoon. A feller from the Salvage company come in while I was there, and so did one from the South Boston tug people. They went into Cook's room and come out again. Finally the old man came for me. He and his son were there together. 'Titcomb,' says he, 'I'm a fool, and I know it, but I'm goin' to let you try to get the Freedom off. That want all he said. He went on to—"

"What do you want to see him for?" says he.

tell me that in givin' us the job he was riskin' a brand new vessel worth $80,000. 'Mind,' he says, 'I believe you can do it if anybody can, but I won't risk another cent. I won't pay by the day. I'll give you $15,000 when she's off the shoal and towed to Boston, but I won't pay a red cent till she is. It's got to be a contract job, payment on delivery of the goods.'"

Bradley's face fell. "Of course that comb."

"Yes," he said, "make—or break."

Patching Mice-Injured Comb.

A prominent bee-keeper gave us a "kink" along this line the other day which may be useful to some one. Cut off the top of an empty corn or tomato can, leaving the edge as straight as possible, use this for cutting out the mouse-eaten part of the comb and forming it so it can be easily patched; then cut out your patches of sound comb in the same way and attach them with a few drops of wax; just enough to hold them in place; the bees will do the rest.—Canadian Bee Journal.

Bradley's face fell. "Of course that comb."

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by overwork, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in the most potent, invigorating, restorative, strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and to render the ordeal comparatively easy and painless.

It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, ulceration, prolapsus, anteversion, retroversion, or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts, will, whether they experience many of only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and, generally, a permanent cure, by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients are printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the settled fact. "You couldn't accept such an idiotic offer as that."

Captain Ezra took his cigar from his mouth. "Well, Brad," he answered, soberly, "that's what I did; I accepted it."

"Now, Cap'n Ez, look here! You and I have put almost our last copper into the new schooner. We've got practically no ready money. We must hire from seventy to a hundred men at $3 a day and pay them every week. We must feed 'em. We must spend money fitting up the shanty to lodge 'em in. I'll take, maybe, a month before we get her clear—it we do clear her. We may have to spend five or six thousand before then. Where's the money comin' from?"

"I know all that. We'll mortgage the Diving Belle and raise the cash."

"Are you out of your head? We've been lucky so far and haven't had a failure. But failures are bound to come. Suppose we work on this barge for a month and then a heavy gale strikes."

"But, Brad, think of what it means to us if we make good."

"Cap'n Ez, we got that job because nobody else would take it that way. We can do it if anybody can, but nobody else would be fool enough to gamble against the Lord Almighty's weather. We'd be called fools from here to Provincetown."

The captain drew a long breath. "All right," he said gloomily. "Maybe you're right, Brad. It is a crazy gamble. I s'pose, and I was afraid you'd see it that way. Only you must make up your mind to this—if we give up this chance we must settle back and be nothin' but anchor draggers the rest of our lives. We've dunked once, and no matter how good the reason is, no more big jobs 'll come our way. But if we make good—when?"

Now it was Bradley's turn to hesitate. There was some sense in what his partner said, but it was playing against odds and with the last dollar on the table.

Suddenly Bradley spoke. "Oh, hang it, what's the odds?" he exclaimed recklessly. "Go ahead, cap'n! I'll sink or swim with you!"

Captain Ezra grasped his hand. "I swore you would," he cried. "Son, this job's goin' to make us!"

Bradley's laugh was short and rather bitter.

"Yes," he said, "make—or break."

fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of all woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and Antiseptic Suppositories may also be used with great advantage conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription" in all cases of ulceration, and in pelvic catarrh. They cost only 25 cents a box each, at drug stores or, sent by mail, post-paid on receipt of price in stamps by Dr. Pierce whose address is given below.

THEIR FAVORITE BEVERAGES.

What Some of the World's Great Men Preferred to Drink.

The entertaining author of "Collections and Recollections" has been writing on the favorite beverages of great men. Thackeray's choice was claret. He said that "our intellect ripens with good cheer and throws off surprising crops under the influence of that admirable liquid, claret." Mr. Gladstone, to whom the other pleasures of the table meant nothing, was a stickler for port, a believer in it, a judge of it. Mr. Russell says that the only feeble speech he ever heard from Gladstone was made after dinner at an otherwise hospitable house, where wine was not suffered to appear.

Lord Tennyson drank his bottle of port every day, and drank it undecanted, for, as he justly observed, a decanter holds only eight glasses, but a black bottle nine. Mr. Browning, if he could have his own way, drank port all through dinner, as well as after it. Sir Moses Montefiore, who lived to complete his hundred years, drank a bottle of port wine every day after he came to his estate. Mr. Finching, the wine merchant in "Little Dorrit," thought champagne "weak but palatable," and Lord St. Jerome, in "Lothair," was esteemed by the young men a patriot "because he always gave his best champagne at his ball suppers."—Town and Country.

The Main Question.

Relief in the Baby's Cries.

"Why doesn't your wife sing to the baby when she cries?"

"She used to, until she discovered that the neighbors preferred to hear the baby."—Cleveland Leader.

Snakeless Honey-moon.

He (musically)—Adam and Eve lost paradise, poor things! She (rapturously)—But we found it, didn't we, darling?—Puck.

A ROUSING, RIP-ROARING ROUND-UP SALE

PREVIOUS TO OUR ANNUAL INVENTORY.

Goods have been selling at Our Great Annual Clearance Sales Fast and Furious

IT is a strict rule of the Ziegler store that stock shall be reduced to the lowest notch prior to inventory time. To accomplish this we planned a series of unprecedented value giving sales at which times profits are chopped off, sliced to the quick so to speak and in many instances part of the cost suffers. The main object is to clear out the goods and do it as rapidly as possible. The economic instincts of the public are already aroused and we are kept busy supplying the insistent demands of buyers. This will be the mightiest pre-inventory sale in our history. Values only to be fully appreciated by inspection are on every hand. Your money will extend beyond your fondest expectation here. The Ziegler way of doing business is to do exactly as they say they will, every article advertised and every price quoted has the Ziegler guarantee back of it.
